

Brown lipped snail (Cepaea nemoralis) found:

	Yellow	Pink	Brown
No bands	 <input type="text"/>	 <input type="text"/>	 <input type="text"/>
	Number found <input type="text"/>	Number found <input type="text"/>	Number found <input type="text"/>
One band	 <input type="text"/>	 <input type="text"/>	 <input type="text"/>
	Number found <input type="text"/>	Number found <input type="text"/>	Number found <input type="text"/>
Many bands	 <input type="text"/>	 <input type="text"/>	 <input type="text"/>
	Number found <input type="text"/>	Number found <input type="text"/>	Number found <input type="text"/>

White lipped snail (Cepaea hortensis) found:

	Yellow	Pink	Brown
No bands	 <input type="text"/>	 <input type="text"/>	 <input type="text"/>
	Number found <input type="text"/>	Number found <input type="text"/>	Number found <input type="text"/>
One band	 <input type="text"/>	 <input type="text"/>	 <input type="text"/>
	Number found <input type="text"/>	Number found <input type="text"/>	Number found <input type="text"/>
Many bands	 <input type="text"/>	 <input type="text"/>	 <input type="text"/>
	Number found <input type="text"/>	Number found <input type="text"/>	Number found <input type="text"/>

Recorder (s):

Date and time:

Location:

Habitat: (woodland or scrub/hedgerow or tall herbs/grassland/sand dunes)

Thank you for your contribution.

Now go to www.evolutionmegalab.org to add your data to the website!

Safety when out hunting for snails

Snails are not harmful but it is wise to take few a precautions when out in the field:

- 🐌 Always return snails to where you collected them from
- 🐌 Do not take risks hunting on cliffs or climbing trees etc.
- 🐌 Always replace natural objects such as logs if you move them
- 🐌 Cepaea are often found where rubbish is found, use gardening gloves and a stick to turn over rubbish
- 🐌 Roadside verges and ditches are favourite hiding places for Cepaea; take extra care when collecting in places like this
- 🐌 Always follow the Countryside Code when out hunting for snails
- 🐌 If you are collecting by yourself be careful, ideally you should always go collecting with someone else

